Message from the President

My greetings and prayerful good wishes to the students, teachers, staff, parents and Principal of Bhavan's Vidyashram, Jaipur.

I am delighted to know that Vidyashram is releasing its Annual School Magazine Bhavan Bharati-2020 in digital form this year.

Education is an unending process. Creative education will make our youth really Indian-an embodiment of its culture and an authentic representative of its ageless values.

The whole world is passing through a difficult time. Apart from Covid-19 pandemic, the forces of hatred and violence are threatening our country's unity as well as diversity. At such time a good education is essential for any one whose aim is to become successful in a profession and also become a useful and constructive contributor for the welfare of the society.

I am sure that the Bhavan Bharati-2020 will provide informative and stimulative reading.

Message from the Chairman

Corona virus has shaken the world - the elderly, middle-aged and children. It has left humanity crippled and there is no iota of doubt about it. Once again, the might of the humans pales into obscurity before the power of Nature.

But, there were many life-threatening afflictions that existed in India before corona virus entered -- air pollution alone accounts for over 1.2 million deaths per year. Then there is also a grave threat to children's lives in what is often called the 'silent killer' of chronic malnutrition. Obesity, climate change and cardiovascular diseases are some others, though not all. Corona virus has filled us with so much fear that we have no space left for any other fear. But in a globalised world, nobody is isolated from a potent problem, be it environmental, medical or economic.

It is crucial that we look forward with hope, and not give in to desperation which stifles people and progress. Humanity has overcome great challenges in the past, and we will find ways to overcome this too. The teachers, not to forget, have emerged as great corona warriors who kept the wheels of teaching-learning process moving on even in this pandemic also, albeit, with their online teaching. And the wholehearted support of the parents and teachers in keeping the edifice of Education alive couldn't have been more praiseworthy, for as long as there is education, there can never be ignorance. If we focus on the opportunities this pandemic presents, we will be able to keep our spirits high and reach the end of the tunnel much quicker.

from the Principal's Desk...

The history of the nations is brutally scarred as the world struggles to get out of the doom and gloom of one of the deadliest crises it has ever seen that decimated millions in one swoop. As corona virus pandemic raged ahead forcing four-month-long lockdown, indefinite closures (businesses and other sectors) and belying world-class efficacious healthcare systems, the grit of the healthcare sector working at odds with Nature to hem in this crisis was nothing short of heroic and scaffolding. Yet, there has never been a crisis that has not left you wiser after it has subsided. An unexpected fallout of Covid-19 is the acceleration towards online engagements. As the virus shows signs of slowing down, the phased restart of businesses has been taken and the education sector is not far behind. Most of the private schools have shifted to online teaching with the Digital India Campaign helping to transform the entire nation into a digitally empowered society.

A big game changer, this virus has affirmed the importance of health and hygiene in our daily lives as a prerequisite that can make the society robust. With health guidelines put in place, the world starts to heal ; relations, too, heal when all are brought together in close proximity in work-from-home culture, and so does the school, the second home of children, even if it was only to know that their loved ones are safe in their homes.

Our understanding of Covid-19 continues to evolve. Such cataclysmic changes are often seen to redress the imbalances in Nature that suffers miserably at our hands. On a more positive note, 2020 marks a watershed heralding the digital era that gives us another opportunity to start afresh. Daunting and rickety though the start may seem, there has never been a task left unaccomplished where will and hands came together. Yes, together we will weather this storm. Together we will win, this we avow as we set foot in the new normal with a reminder yet again that our relation with one trillion other species on the Earth is that of partnership, not domination.

The Vice Principal

"Strength does not come from physical activity. It comes from an indomitable will" . . . Mahatma Gandhi

The times we are facing are truly challenging , the Covid 19 , pandemic has restricted our movements and has brought insecurity and undefined fear in every heart. The need of the hour is to remain positive and have a strong will power.

Will power is the drive within each one of us. It deals with self control, self discipline and is the power to overcome doubt and fear.

Parenthood is a responsible venture and in such trying times it is all the more important to discuss this virtue with the children who are finding it difficult to connect with the new normal. Through exercises, meditation and self discipline , will power can be cultivated.

This practice yields long term rewards and happiness. A strong will power enables the children to develop a character of realising the difference between what is good and what is not .

lets all get together and work towards developing in our little ones this greatest human strength .. will power ,which would not only help them to deal with the present times effectively but also would lead them to greater satisfaction and achievements in life .

The Headmistress

*When it rains, look for the rainbows,
When it's dark look for the stars.'*

Dear Readers,

The road of 2020 was rather too bumpy but it is time for us to move on. Let us keep our challenges aside and start appreciating life once again. "Life will never be the same" is a common phrase being used by most of us, but what about the little toddlers who have gained consciousness in these trying times? They have either forgotten or were yet to have experience of interaction with friends, birthday celebrations , playing on swings and waiting in queue for their turn. May be we have been too occupied with our own problems, but it is time for us to ponder and take measures for the socio-emotional development of the little ones .

Let us be determined to have healthy communication with our children by playing with them, narrating stories to them, taking them out for a walk, and giving them small pleasant surprises. Remember there is still room to create beautiful memories. The gadgets which have become our lifelines should take a back seat for some time in the day and we should strive to get connected to our kids. We should provide ample opportunities to them to investigate and explore. It is time we realize that for our little kids who are still confined to the four walls of our homes , we are literally their 'entire world' right now. It becomes imperative, therefore, to be involved in their lives and help them navigate through these trying times. We as parents and teachers need to hear the unspoken words of these toddlers who wish to convey that they too have been affected by the tough waves and need help. Let us reach out to them and together make the world beautiful for our kids and help them believe that life is much beyond the masks, gloves and social distancing.

Life is a Celebration

Building A Strong Foundation

Foundation Day

Breathing The Air Of Independence

The 73rd Independence Day was celebrated with full nationalistic sentiment even as rains lashed the city intermittently. Dr. Satish Batra, Deputy Director, Bhavan's Jaipur Kendra, hoisted the tricolour.

A short programme by the hostel students soon followed in the auditorium. The Principal, Smt. Pratima Sharma, inspired the audience to work with a renewed zeal towards nation building. The programme concluded with the singing of the National Anthem and distribution of sweets.

Freedom – A Privilege

Janmashtami Celebration

The confluence of music, devotion and entertainment was the Janmashtami programme in all its colours echoing its passionate plea to save water with a thrust upon clean rivers campaign. While bhajans and dances swept the audience off their feet, the musical drama 'Krishna Ka Ahwaan' was a grim reminder of the environmental degradation and water pollution that saw man at the receiving end of his own reckless actions. The evening closed with the distribution of prasaad.

Teachers' Day

Teachers' Day celebrations opened with the welcome of Shri V.V. Bhaskaran Bhavan's Director, Mumbai. The day was made more special as Vidyashram felicitated Shri Ajit Singh Rathore, Shri Pradeep Ranwka, Smt. Neelu Sharma and Smt. V. Kathuria for completing 25 years of their service to the institution. A short entertainment programme soon followed with the students' medley of Old Hindi film hits and a fun-activity of inviting teachers to do a bidding with their randomly-picked-out chits. However, the show stealer was the narrative on the changing face of Bollywood music, making it more than demanding with the signature dance moves of the actors of the epoch-making eras. The day closed with the lunch at the Entertainment Paradise.

Mentors' Day Out

Annual Day

The Annual Day enthralled the audience with its powerful message of the insidious penetration of mobiles in the lives of children overshadowing all other activities and making them unproductive. A short drama brought out the obsessive use of mobiles by children where the potential hazards far outweigh its benefits. Indian freedom struggle is one of the most significant events in the history of India. It is essential for the new generation to know about the sacrifices of the bravehearts who led to the success of the freedom of the nation. The cultural programme 'Jagriti' was presented by the students of the senior school.

Editorial

Social distancing and stay-at-home orders disconnected millions of children from in person education and left time for parents to prepare and support their child 's education at home.

The school buildings have been closed due to the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic but schools continue online. The true test of a school is the quality of its teachers. With the passage of time the role of teachers and expectations from them have also changed. A majority of teachers did not use electronic means of communication in their teaching before Covid-19 and the new situation represents a big challenge for them. As teachers have readily accepted challenges, they no doubt influence the hearts and minds in many ways. Today, we teachers are educating the natives of the technological age and it is imperative to teach them using the technology they are familiar with. When Education and Technology become synonymous to each other it becomes necessary to inculcate basic values and ethics. Thus aim at holistic development of children.

Today, there is a need to tie them with the string of digital and traditional education which will shape them to strive for more in this competitive world and thus move ahead holding both modern and traditional values together.

This year Bhavan Bharati 2019-2020 is being presented to you in Digital Format. Enjoy every moment as in life, there are no rewinds only flashbacks. This e-Magazine has been prepared to bring up an exhilarating flash back of the events and achievements during the session 2019-2020. I would also take this opportunity to extend my heartfelt gratitude to my entire editorial team who has striped hard to bring this e-Magazine before you.
